

FIRMWARE UPGRADE USING ADDRESS CONVERSION

Abstract of the Disclosure

A system and method for upgrading a boot block of a firmware program is disclosed. A copy of a replacement boot block is transferred to a firmware device, and then the execution address is changed to point to this new location.

- 5 The replacement boot block is then copied over the original boot block. Once the copying is complete, the execution address is restored to the original location in the firmware program.